

Project: Godiva

Professional photographer Ian Battersby is looking for participants for his upcoming project entitled 'Godiva'.

The collection of images produced is intended for exhibition and publication in a small coffee-table book. As a participant you will receive a free copy together with a limited edition print and expenses reimbursed.

Ian explains the project:

"Having grown up a naturist I have found it both bizarre and fascinating how society reacts unfavourably to genuine and innocent nudity, or do they? Are these reactions really founded in opposition and objection, or is that expectation that society has imposed upon us?"

This project aims to challenge our perceptions by setting participants in everyday scenes, but with a singular un-provocative nude figure. Confronted with this image can opposition and objection really be found, or simple fascination how a clothing-optional world might look?

It's important to me that I use real people in my projects, people of real shapes and sizes, people that represent the real world."

Is that you?

If you are at all tempted to be involved in the project then complete the form below or alternatively the on-line version at <http://blog.ianbattersby.net/page/participate-volunteer>.

Project:	Godiva
Name:
Address:
Postcode:
Telephone:
Email:
(tick as appropriate)
I wish to take part in the photo-shoot (clothed only)	<input type="checkbox"/>
I wish to take part in the photo-shoot (clothed or nude)	<input type="checkbox"/>
I wish to take part in the photo-shoot (without being identifiable)	<input type="checkbox"/>

Note: Location shoots of this size are costly to produce so it is essential that we have all paperwork in order for both your and our protection, as such all participants will be required to sign a model release at the time of shooting and must be over the age of 18.